

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Contact: Vel Johnson

vel@vasajcommunications.com

Central Florida's Vasaj Communications Exec Still Receiving National Attention

Orlando, FL (September 1, 2009) - Vel Johnson, Founder and CEO of Vasaj Communications, Inc. is being currently featured in the fall 2009 issue of Today's Black Woman Magazine.

The publication's cover features Michelle Obama and profiles cultural and social lifestyles of African American women, including articles about fashion, community, and business. When asked how she feels about being in such a prestigious periodical that features the First Lady, Vel humbly asserts, "It's a blessing to create a business platform that garners recognition by all positive means. Our desire is to not only increase a market base for our clients, but to become recognized as a viable resource to any individual or entity that needs our services."

In January of 2009, Vel, on behalf of her company was showcased as a "Small Business Catalyst" in a two-page spread in Black Enterprise Magazine. Even with the current economic situation, Vasaj Communications is considered by many business leaders to be thriving. "As long as there are needs for enhanced communications and circumstantial awareness for greater profit, we are poised to assist when called," further states Vel.

Vasaj Communications, Inc. is a full service public relations and media resource firm that specializes in business, political, and non-profit promotion. They also operate in the special interest areas of special event consulting and crisis management. For more information, go to: www.vasajcommunications.com, or call 407.454.7779.

###